

Figure S2 Different stages of a field construction of lysimeters: Metal rod support structure (A) and the same structure placed at the final location of lysimeters (B), installation of an internal box structure, made from water resistant formwork plates (C), and the bottom-up view on the finalized structure of the box lysimeters, with a lysimeter percolate collection tank placed in front (D).